CalFresh Food is California's name for the federal food program called Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) that used to be known as Food Stamps.

CalFresh Food is a nutrition program that allows you buy healthy food at most food outlets, grocery stores, farmers markets and some restaurants.

Eligibility is based your family size, income, and some living costs.

Benefits are deposited on an Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card, that works like a debit card.

If you need food right away, you may qualify for Expedited Services, if you qualify you will get benefits within 3 days.
